

Voices OF HOPE

South Sudan

In the heart of Yei County, South Sudan, a story of resilience is unfolding. The Humanitarian Early Recovery and Development program, launched by Finn Church Aid, has been a lifeline for families struggling to make ends meet. When the pandemic hit, food insecurity drastically increased, but this program stepped in to provide support.

For thousands of families, receiving seeds and power tillers has been a game-changer. They've been able to cultivate their land, grow more food, and even sell the surplus vegetables at local markets. The extra income has brought a sense of security and dignity to households that needed it.

Young adults are also finding new opportunities through vocational training in carpentry, tailoring, and catering. These skills are opening doors to new careers and businesses, empowering them to build a brighter future. It's a chance for them to break free from the cycle of poverty and create a better life for themselves and their families.
